[Privileged & Confidential]

Hi all,

Here is a PDF of what Design will present to Phil for Wisconsin tomorrow at 9am for you to preview. We've made some changes based on our check-ins yesterday and today. We've cleaned up the deck to better explain the potential guidance for in-app flows, and added an alternate direction with a more standardized interstitial design.

Thanks, and see you tomorrow,
Terry

Approach

Apple IAP is still required

Single external URL per app, owned / controlled by the developer

No interrupting or mimicking Apple IAP

Link must resolve to external browser

PREFER THE SYSTEM FONT FOR THE TITLE — THAT IS, SIGN IN WITH APPLE, SIGN UP WITH APPLE, OR CONTINUE WITH APPLE. Regardless of the font you choose, the title and button height of your custom button need to use the same proportions that the system uses. Using the system font for example, the title's font size would be 43% of the button's height — in other words, the button's height would be 233% of the title's font size, rounded to the nearest integer. Here are two examples that show these proportions using different sizes of the system font.

IN GENERAL, PRESERVE THE CAPITALIZATION STYLE OF THE TITLE. By default, all variants of the button title capitalize the first word — that is, Sign or Continue — and Apple; all other letters are lowercase. Avoid changing this style unless your interface uses only uppercase.

KEEP THE TITLE AND LOGO VERTICALLY ALIGNED WITHIN THE BUTTON. To do this, vertically align the title to the middle of the button, then add the logo image, making sure its height matches the height of the button. Because the logo image includes top and bottom padding, vertically aligning the
